

BEING MONEY-WISE HAS A PRICE

Being money-wise is not an idea I have to mention

It is not an expression nor an impression

Being money-wise is in fact an action

It demands our attention and reflection

Investments, banking, budgeting and savings

Being wise with our earnings and our spending

Piggy banks, bank accounts and shareholdings

Being wise with money creates profit

Pay off debts, refrain from making more

It robs your independence if you ignore

Be vigilant savers, look out for price wars,

Keep debt and fraud out of doors

Stakeholders in the government today,

Make wise decisions and lead the way

Monitor the fate of exchange rates

To better Fiji's international trade

Business and financial institutions,

Address the need for productive contributions

Drawing in households for resourceful solutions

Maximizing utility with fair income distribution

Fulfil the need for awareness and education

Securing the future of young generations

Grassroots trust the power of negotiations

To be active participants in the economy of the nation.
